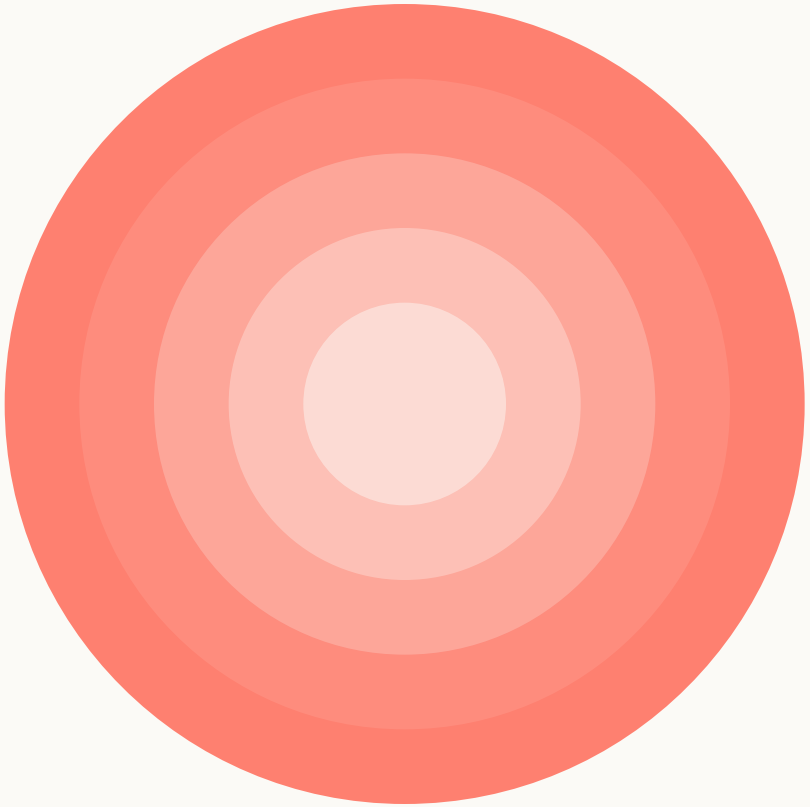
Flipbooks, rebuilt

Why a 20-year-old idea still sells catalogs

01

People skim paper

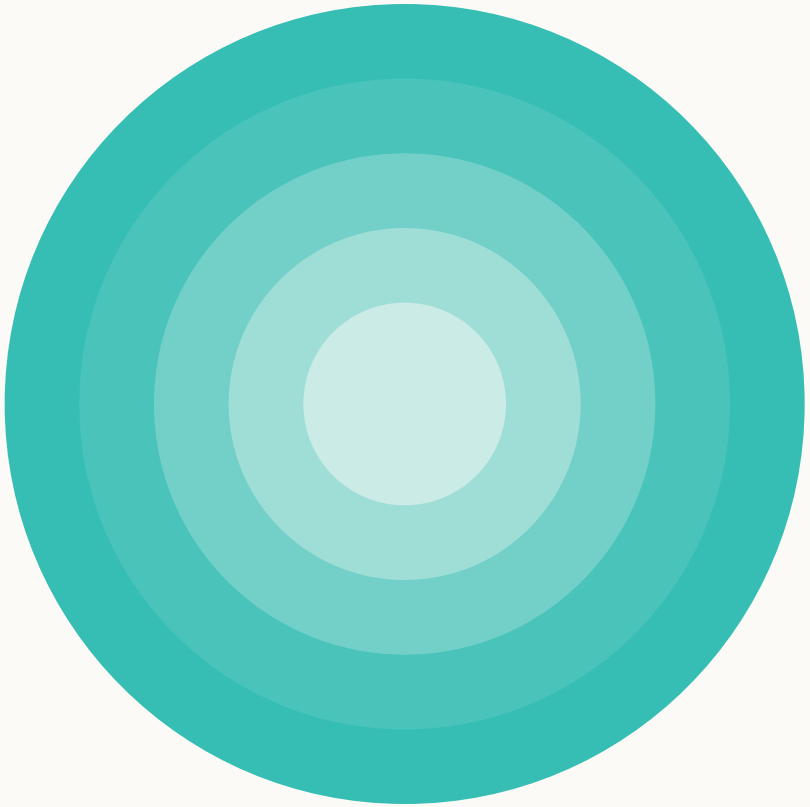
A spread shows two pages at once. Readers scan, compare and come back.



02

Downloads get lost

A PDF in the downloads folder is a PDF nobody opens again.

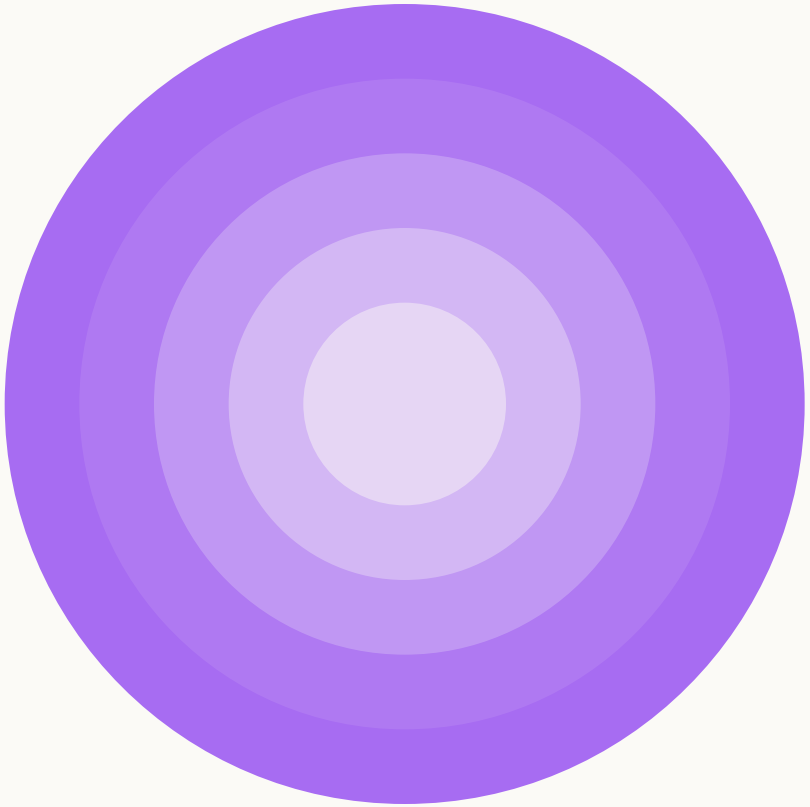


03

The web can do it now

CSS 3D, Web Audio and pdf.js are in every browser.

No plugin, no Flash.



04

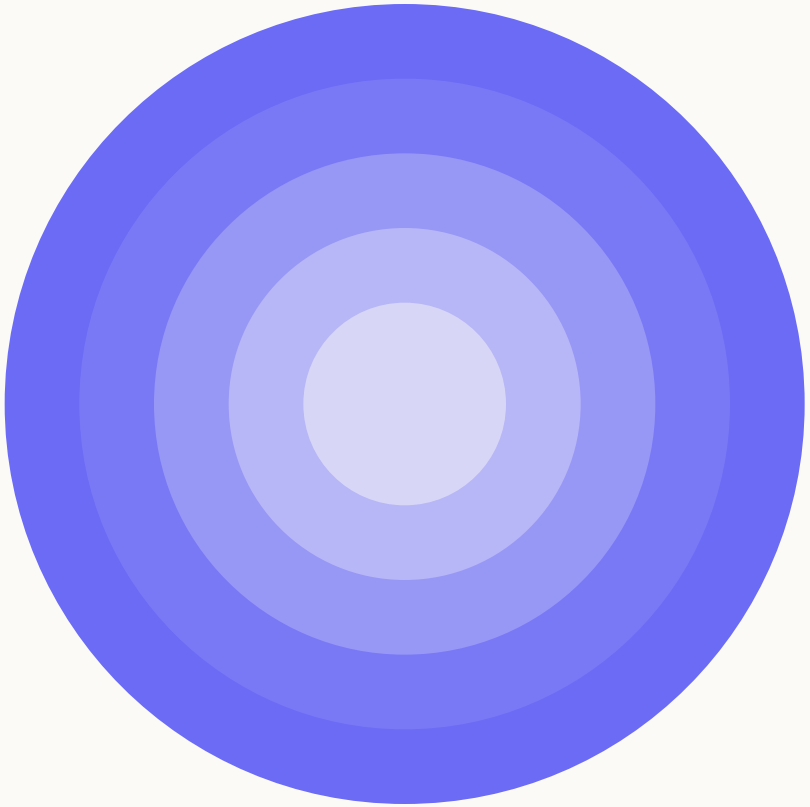
Landscape works too

Slides like this one open as single pages, never squeezed into a spread.

05

One script tag

Add two files, mark a link with data-sdflip, and every PDF on the site turns.



06

Open source

MIT licensed. Fork it, theme it, ship it.
